Internet Resources for Older Teens About Sexuality

The Family Project
www.familiesaretalking.org

The Family Project, which includes the Families Are Talking Website and newsletter, is a project of the Sexuality Information and Education Council of the United States (SIECUS). This project began in 2000 to empower parents and caregivers to communicate with their children about sexuality-related issues, to provide tools to help families communicate about these issues, and to encourage parents, caregivers, and young people to become advocates on the local, state, and national levels for sexuality-related issues including comprehensive sexuality education programs in the schools.

Go Ask Alice!
www.goaskalice.columbia.edu

This is a health question-and-answer Internet service produced by Alice! Columbia University’s Health Education Program — a division of Health Services at Columbia.

The Teen Health Initiative (THI)
http://www.nyclu.org/thi/frames/thi_frameset.html

The THI was created in 1997 under the auspices of the New York Civil Liberty Union’s Reproductive Rights Project (RRP) to work to remove the barriers that prevent young people from accessing critical reproductive health services and information. The THI staff increases awareness of minors’ rights to receive confidential reproductive and other healthcare.